I've really tried to focus on recording techniques, not really much theory here but then again, there are a lot of people out there who already know the majority of what is explained in this manual... Keymacro Keymacro is a looping tool which is perfectly suitable for creating one-shot or endless loops in a single step. It features a huge number of parameters, a lot of which can be animated using MIDI. Armed with the track list and the clip editor, the Keyboardist is an excellent composition tool. With the help of a sequencer, you can create infinite tracks and compose tunes in one step. You can also use the WALLPERCH to arrange clips and save them for later use. With a sequencer, you can quickly arrange clips, use the various FADER functions and easily create songs and melodies with loops. You can save your songs and melodies in a WALLPERCH folder. You can record this and use it to extend the clip length, or you can assign each track to a different piano/keyboard to play the track in real time. Keymacro's EDM mixer is suitable for all genres of electronic dance music. Features: 4 track version Great for DJ use Mix and play Tight EQ Dynamic effects All-in-one integrated sequencer Keymacro is used for creating loops of different lengths, and for creating beatless solo and instrumental songs. Keymacro includes a sequencer that allows you to create entire songs in one step. With a sequencer, you can quickly arrange clips and save them for later use.
