391.0 Serial Key As a professional with 40 years of experience in writing software, I know that the open source community is too small to. The present invention relates to a digital signal processing method, apparatus and program, particularly to a digital signal processing method, apparatus and program which are capable of being applied to a digital audio decoding apparatus that processes a compressed digital audio signal. In recent years, compact disk (CD) players have been rapidly spreading in the market. Compact disks record various kinds of music information in the form of digital data in a disk from which music can be reproduced by a CD player. A CD player reads recorded data by an optical disk drive, digitizes it using a pickup, and then decodes it. Thus, a CD player should read data of recorded information in order to reproduce the recorded information. Data of the recorded information in a form of a CD-ROM is generally sent to a CD player from a host computer in the form of an external system bus packet, or stored as a file in a storage medium such as a hard disk. In either case, a CD player transfers data of the recorded information to a decoder. On the other hand, recording of audio information is generally based on a digital data compression technique such as MP3 or AAC. These techniques compress audio data by referring to pre-specified audio information such as music score data, and can record the compressed audio data in a disk. Furthermore, a CD player can extract such audio data from the disk, decompress it, and output it. As described above, a CD player has a need for reference data, namely musical score data or audio data, in order to reproduce the music or the audio. On the other hand, the amount of data to be recorded is large. When audio data itself is compressed using a conventional compression technique, the capacity of a disk becomes small. This becomes a critical problem when miniaturized portable apparatuses such as mobile phones and PDAs are designed to record music and vocal. In view of the foregoing, the present invention was made. In an aspect of the invention, there is provided a digital signal processing method that decodes a compressed digital signal in a digital audio decoding apparatus comprising an input section for inputting a compressed digital signal; a decompression section that decompresses the compressed digital signal; an encoded section that generates encoded data, the encoded data being given to the decompression section as analysis processing instructions; and a control section that carries out processing specified by the analysis processing
